

Statistical analysis: rice phenotype

Houda Aiboud Benchekroun and Thomas Roiseux (group 8)

2022-11-18

General information

Genetic data hold important information about living beings. These information can be used to understand and even predict the ability of a species, or an individual, to protect itself from a specific disease.